

THE BRAND VOICE FILE

The template that makes AI write like YOU – by Zubair Trabzada · AI Workshop

FILL IT ONCE · EVERY POST SOUNDS LIKE YOU FOREVER

How to use it: copy the template below into a file called brand-voice.md (the ready-to-fill .md file comes with this pack). Upload it to Claude – or keep it in your Claude Code folder – and say: "Interview me to fill in my brand voice file." Claude asks you a few questions, fills it in, and from then on every post it writes is in your voice, with your stories, on your rules.

⚠ The example answers below belong to "Alex," a fictional Austin coffee roaster – so you can see what GOOD looks like. Specific beats impressive: real numbers, real phrases, real stories. Replace everything with yours.

WHO I AM

Alex – I roast coffee in small batches in Austin and ship it nationwide. 8 years, one roastery, zero shortcuts.

One sentence. What you do + the detail that makes you different.

AUDIENCE

Home-coffee nerds aged 25–45 who own a grinder, hate bitter coffee, and want café results without café prices.

Who follows you (or should)? What do they WANT that they don't have yet?

OFFERS & CALLS-TO-ACTION (rotate – one per post, never more)

1. Free shipping on first order → "link in bio" 2. Coffee quiz → "DM me QUIZ" 3. Wholesale → "DM me WHOLESale" 4. Engagement → "tell me in the comments"

VOICE RULES

Funny↔Serious: 70% playful, serious about craft · Bold↔Humble: bold about coffee, humble about me · Casual↔Polished: casual, like a text to a friend · Short↔Storyteller: short lines, one story post a week

NEVER: hashtag walls, "elevate your coffee experience", fake urgency, trashing competitors, politics

MY PHRASES (how I actually talk)

"life's too short for bitter coffee" · "roasted Tuesday, at your door Friday" · "your grinder matters more than your machine" · "okay real talk"

MY STORIES (true + specific = the anti-AI-slop fuel)

WIN: a Dallas café switched to us – espresso sales up 40% in two months; the owner texted me a photo of the empty hopper.

FAILURE: burned a 60lb batch in 2021 trusting a new thermometer over my nose – $800 of beans became garden mulch.

SURPRISE: my best-seller started as a mistake – pulled a batch 90 seconds early and customers begged for "that lighter one."

PROOF I CAN CLAIM

8 years roasting · 40+ wholesale cafés · 4.9★ from 2,100 reviews · roast-to-door in 4 days

CONTENT PILLARS (my forever topics)

1. Brew better at home
2. Behind the roaster
3. Coffee myths, busted
4. Customer wins
5. New roast drops

Platform styles – Claude reads the section for whichever platform you name

INSTAGRAM

- Hook = first line, max 8 words (assume it's cut off after that)
- Short lines, white space, 1-2 emoji max · MAX 5 hashtags, niche, at the end
- Formats: Reels (30s, hook in first 2 sec), carousels (slide 1 = big short text), single photos
- Visual style: warm tones, real hands + real coffee, no stocky perfection

X / TWITTER

- Every post ≤280 characters. Punchy. Hot takes welcome. No hashtags (or one, max)
- Threads: first tweet must work alone; number the rest; end with the CTA

LINKEDIN

- 150-300 words, one-line paragraphs, white space · max 3 hashtags
- Angle: business lessons from the work (not just tips) · still sounds like me
- No links in the post body – "link in comments"

TIKTOK

- 30-second scripts: spoken words + on-screen text
- Hook in the FIRST 2 seconds, visual and specific ("I burned $800 of coffee – smell this")
- Casual, imperfect, behind-the-scenes energy

FACEBOOK

- Conversational, 40-80 words, like talking to regulars · end with a question
- Local angle whenever possible

YOUTUBE COMMUNITY / SHORTS

- Community: one image + one question or poll · Shorts: TikTok rules, slightly less slang